Mile Monday Competition 2025

Version 1

Summary

A strong supporter of Mile Monday has decided to sponsor Mile Monday 2025. This anonymous gifter ("A.G.") will award at a minimum 1 prize to 1 lucky mile runner. The contest will take place from June 9, 2025 to October 13, 2025. This is a total of 19 Mondays, aka 19 opportunities to better yourself (or x opportunities to embarrass yourself and 19 - x opportunities to better yourself). A.G. has expressed interest in seeing evidence of both. The rules and prize of this contest are as follows.

Rules

1. Must be an Instagram follower, family member, enemy, or lover of the contest administrator (albert.gnadt).
2. Exactly 1 mile must be run on a Monday +/- 1 day ("Mile Monday"). Monday is preferred, but Sunday or Tuesday are permitted as necessary, with the exception of the last Tuesday, October 14, 2025 (post-drawing). Non-Monday submissions may be subject to ridicule. Limit 1 entry per Mile Monday.
3. Mile Monday must be run on a track or another relatively flat outdoor surface (e.g., running trail). If the later is chosen, evidence of the correct distance (e.g., Strava) may be requested. Treadmills are strictly prohibited.
4. Mile Monday must be run for time. "Maximum effort" is not necessary, but a good-faith effort to "try" must be made. It is at the discretion of the entrant how "try" is defined. Please do not hurt yourself.
5. Evidence of Mile Monday and the entrant's corresponding 1 mile time must be submitted via a single photo of a timing device taken after completion of Mile Monday. This photo may be sent to the contest administrator via Instagram DM or text, or more preferably, a shared cloud storage location (e.g., Google Photos folder).
6. No artificial intelligence ("AI") may be used in any part of this competition. In fact, any mention of AI by an entrant throughout the duration of this competition will result in immediate and permanent disqualification.

Prize

On October 13, 2025, names corresponding to all accumulated entries will be written on small pieces of paper. 1 piece of paper will be drawn out of a Green Bay Packers hat by the contest administrator, and the winner will receive $314.16.

Additional Notes

A.G. has expressed extreme displeasure at the notion of any falsified Mile Monday entries, which would surely not be in the spirit of the competition. Rules and prizes are subject to change, though prizes are purely additive. Depending on interest in this contest, A.G. has expressed interest in other "unique" and "innovative" (definitely NOT "weird" nor "stupid") prizes:

1. An official Mile Monday runner pack, including big cat socks, big face watch, and too short shorts.
2. A Hydrox vs Oreo blind taste test kit that can only be consumed after setting a Mile Monday personal record ("PR").
3. One of them really big checks.
4. A prize based on a non-linear performance model using an entrant's 1 mile time, age, gender, and weight.
5. A prize based on a deterministic black box model using an entrant's 1 mile time and other seemingly random inputs. With enough entries, the model can be empirically optimized.
6. Increasing value prize(s) based on consecutive completed Mile Mondays. It is likely that an entrant's 1 mile time will also decrease in successive weeks. Thus, the payout per unit time is likely to increase, perhaps substantially. The prize will only be paid upon an entrant leaving work midday or early a minimum of 1 time, with the entrant informing his or her boss some variation of, "gotta go chief, time to stack some big cash down at the track" (ideally with no follow-up clarification).